Hello Steph,

Very late on Friday, just when it seemed everyone had gone home for the weekend, this email popped up in my inbox from John Araneda, the Communify support worker. He was so excited, he couldn't spell properly...

Gold news on a Friday you've been excepted into the Park Hotel mate! Congratulations, so intake is on Tuesday but I'll meet or call you on Monday.
Have a good weekend
John

WOW... so the average waiting list according to the Minister is 8 months, yet they managed to get me accepted into the Park Hotel in two days. Seems like someone said something to cover their ass so I can no longer say I'm being evicted into homelessness. If I refuse to go to the Park, they can now say it's my fault if I end up homeless.

- The Park is temporary accommodation only. There is no knowing how long I will be there.
- Queensland taxpayers will fork out nearly $1,000 for every week I stay at the Park. My personal rent obligation will increase by 35%.
- There is no car parking available at the hotel, so I will be severely restricted in my movement.
- I will be unable to access most of my possessions which will be locked away in storage.
- I pay more but get less. The taxpayer bears an unnecessarily heavy burden. It's a lose-lose arrangement.

It's essentially a prison without bars. This punishment does not fit the "crime" I have allegedly committed.

Note also in John's previous email below, the continued insinuation that my stuff is merely "rubbish". They have tried to push me into getting a skip before... Need I say that I'm insulted by this? It's exactly what William LeMass, the QCAT Adjudicator said in the hearing.. "we'll get three guys and a skip and all your stuff is gone in 24 hours, boom, done".

Hi John,

Thanks for your email.

I am arranging to move my stuff out of the apartment next week.

There will not be enough rubbish to require a skip. Thank you for the offer anyway.

Please keep me advised about the referrals for alternative accommodation.

Regards,

David Barker

Hey Dave do you have storage sorted in regards to the belongings inside the unit, what are you going to do with it all and do you require a skip bin and some professionals to assist you with it?

On other aspects of the case, I have started packing up my stuff, preparing it for the truck which I'm hiring Tuesday to Thursday. I need a couple of people to help with this, if you can spread the word around that would be great.

Obviously, protecting my possessions is more important to me than this stupid Park referral, so, although I have been careful not to specifically reject it, I need to stress to these people that I have more important things to do right at this moment.

You may also be aware that Jono Sri's office is going to start contacting journalists in print and TV shortly with the intention of bringing my story to the screens and living rooms of SEQ. Hopefully this will be the big push we need to make them finally roll over.

One final twist is that my friend Ron Sakzewski worked with Corey for about a year. They know each other and have good rapport. Ron was in the police for about 40 years and retired about five years ago. He is now on the committee of the Indooroopilly Activity Hub. I have his permission for you to mention his name to Corey in support of the police exercising their discretion not to enforce the Warrant. The Hub is also preparing a statement for support which should be issued shortly.

I am also investigating whether there are any further possible legal avenues I can use to either bring this matter to another hearing or have it overturned. It just seems odd to me that the matter is "stuck" in QCAT and is not able to be sent to another court (e.g. Magistrates or Supreme) for review. QCAT appears to be a law unto itself which no one else can check.

I'll have more news in the morning. Thanks for your continued support and advocacy.

Regards,

David Barker
